Call for Abstracts

The Conference Organizing Committee (COC) hopes to attract a diverse group of attendees that represent the full range of specialists involved in the field of craniofacial identification. Visit http://www.craniofacial-id.org/next-meeting.html for more information about the conference.

The theme of the meeting is "Facing the Future of Craniofacial Identification," and we encourage all interested delegates and students to submit an abstract discussing your latest research, case study, or other related topic of interest for a podium or poster presentation. The deadline for submitting an abstract is March 15, 2019.

General Information:

- Podium presentations are for a total of 15 minutes, including time for questions. All podium presentations will be scheduled from July 15 through noon July 16.

- Posters must fit within 48″ x 48″ (122cm x 122cm). Posters will be displayed from July 15 through noon July 16, with the authors present for discussion the afternoon of July 16.

- Delegate abstracts are eligible to be considered for the R. Taylor Award for Best Case-Report Abstract and the CN. Stephan Award for Best Scientific Abstract (information available on meeting website).

- Students may be eligible for consideration for the CRANIOFACIALidentification.com Student Travel Award. More information can be found at http://craniofacialidentification.com/.

- Student presentations are eligible to be considered for an IACI Best Student Presentation Award.

Abstracts:

- Should be submitted as a Word document or pdf.

- Include title, author(s), author affiliations(s), abstract body, and three key words.

- Abstract body should be 300-400 words and single-spaced.

- Indicate the corresponding author and provide an email address.

- Indicate whether the abstract is to be considered for a podium or poster presentation.

- Indicate if you are a student, and list your educational institution and advisor.

Spaces for podium presentations are limited; some abstracts submitted as podium presentations may be accepted as posters.

Corresponding authors will receive notification of their abstract's acceptance by April 15, 2019.
